FORM A – TRANSFER OF COPYRIGHT

Most authors who are university employees will sign this form, and in many cases need only sign at (1).

The undersigned hereby assign(s) to the Australasian Fluids Mechanics Society (AFMS) copyright ownership of the above-titled Paper, effective if and when the Paper is accepted for publication by the AFMS and to the extent transferable under applicable national law. This assignment gives the AFMS the right to publish the Paper in any print or electronic medium.

Authors, or their employers or clients in the case of works made for hire, retain the following rights:

1. All proprietary rights other than copyright, including patent rights;
2. The right to make and distribute copies of the Paper for any purpose other than financial profit from sale of the copy of the Paper;
3. The right to use the material for lecture or classroom purposes;
4. The right to prepare derivative publications based on the Paper, including books or book chapters, journal papers, and magazine articles, provided that publication of a derivative work occurs subsequent to the official date of publication by the AFMS;
5. The right to post an author-prepared version or an official version (preferred version) of the published paper on an internal or external server controlled exclusively by the author/employer, provided that (a) such posting is non-commercial in nature and the paper is made available to users without charge; (b) a full citation and copyright notice appear with the paper; and (c) a link to the AFMS’s official online version of the abstract is provided.

Citation format:

Author(s), Year, Paper Title, Proceedings of the 19th Australasian Fluid Mechanics Conference, RMIT University, Melbourne, Australia, 8-11 December 2014, Paper Number.

Copyright notice format:

Copyright 2014 Australasian Fluid Mechanics Society. Systematic reproduction and distribution, duplication of any material in this paper for any financial profit or for commercial purposes, or modification of the content of the paper are prohibited.

By signing this Agreement, the authors, or their employers or clients in the case of works made for hire, warrant that:

1. the Paper is original and has not previously been published elsewhere;
2. this work does not infringe on any copyright or other rights in any other work;
3. all necessary reproduction permissions, licenses, and clearances have been obtained;
4. the AFMS is indemnified from any and all liabilities arising from the content of the Paper;
5. the authors own the copyright in the Paper, are authorised to transfer it, and have full power to enter into this Agreement with the AFMS.

WHO SHOULD SIGN. This form must be signed by: (1) at least one author who is not an employee of the Australian, British, Canadian or U.S. Government or of any government that retains copyright; and (2) the author’s employer or client if the work presented in the Paper was commissioned by the employer or client under an agreement in which the employer or client retains intellectual property rights. The person signing this Agreement represents that he/she is signing this Agreement as authorised agent for and on behalf of all the authors.

Signed (tick one) ☐ the sole author
☐ one author authorised to execute this transfer on behalf of all the authors of the above article

FORM B – LICENCE TO PUBLISH

If all authors were employees of the Australian, British, Canadian or U. S. Government or of any government that retains copyright when this Paper was prepared, and the authors prepared this Paper as part of their official duties, at least one author should sign below. Examples include Papers where all authors were employees of agencies such as CSIRO Australia or DSTO Australia.

The undersigned hereby assign(s) to the Australasian Fluids Mechanics Society (AFMS) a licence to publish the above-titled Paper, effective if and when the Paper is accepted for publication by the AFMS and to the extent transferable under applicable national law. This assignment gives the AFMS the right to publish the Paper in any print or electronic medium and to transfer the licence to publish to third parties.

Authors’ employers retain the following rights, as do the authors, subject to any agreement restricting authors’ rights that the authors have entered into with their employers:
1. All proprietary rights, including patent rights;
2. The right to make and distribute copies of the Paper for any purpose other than financial profit from sale of the Paper copy;
3. The right to use the material for lecture or classroom purposes;
4. The right to prepare derivative publications based on the Paper, including books or book chapters, journal papers, and magazine articles, provided that publication of a derivative work occurs subsequent to the official date of publication by the AFMS;
5. The right to post an author-prepared version or an official version (preferred version) of the published paper on an internal or external server controlled exclusively by the author/employer, provided that (a) such posting is non-commercial in nature and the paper is made available to users without charge; (b) a full citation appears with the paper, and (c) a link to the AFMS’s official online version of the abstract is provided.
